

Moran Receives Award for Conservative Voting Record

American Conservative Union Honors Moran's Votes

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Jerry Moran was recently honored by The American Conservative Union (ACU) and awarded the 2008 ACU Ratings of Congress Award for his record in 2008 of standing up for conservative ideals and his commitment to America's core principles.

"I believe in personal freedom, limited government and individual responsibility," Moran said. "Government should create the conditions for citizens to prosper. I am one of only 17 of the 435 Members of House of Representatives to vote against every stimulus and bailout plan. These plans have led to massive government spending and intrusion in private business that, with a rising national debt, threatens our return to prosperity."

"The American Conservative Union has presented the 2008 ACU Ratings of Congress Award to Congressman Jerry Moran for his support of conservative principles on a wide range of issues," said ACU Chairman David A. Keene. "Congressman Moran's lifetime rating over 12 years of service reflects a consistent record and a member of Congress whose grass roots conservatives can turn to for leadership."

The ACU was founded in 1964 to promote the principles of liberty and the strength of the Constitution. Since 1971, ACU has rated every member of the House and Senate. ACU serves as the nation's largest and strongest grassroots conservative organization. For the Second Session of the 110th Congress (2008), the ACU rated 25 votes for each Member in the House. The issues for those votes included federal bailouts, domestic energy production, missile defense, Alternative Minimum Tax, Second Amendment rights and the "stimulus" spending bill.
